CHAPTER 9:

THE INS AND OUTS OF GAY SEX

THIS BOOK IS GAY
by Juno Dawson

Oral sex is popping another dude's peen in your mouth or, indeed, popping yours in his.

Straight men like stuff up their bums just as much as gay ones.

It's more about sliding your mouth up and down the shaft of his cock.

It is a universal truth that many men like sticking their willies inside things.

...other types of sex. This is fine, and certainly not something to be ashamed of for.

...all about the wrist action. Rub the head of the penis with your fingers. Try different speeds and pressures.

...ing a todger and shaking it like a maraca.

...nding about rubbing two peens together. You can rub them together in one hand.

...DIE (trademark pending).

...ner is circumcised ('cut') you will want to be careful. If you haven't got as much skin to move around as a non-circumcised man, you'll find it more difficult to pop another dude's peen in your mouth.

...there is only one hard and fast rule when it comes to oral sex. TH. Lips and tongue, yes; teeth, NO.

...gs, all men like their blowies served in different ways. It's massively misleading, as you would think you're actually being sucked (although I stress you're not trying to suck him). It's more about sliding your mouth up and down the shaft of his cock.

...th is a safe sex no-no. Get away from the idea that you can be aware that many sexually transmitted infections can be passed through oral sex.

...truth that many men like sticking their willies inside things is a universal truth. Well, in the anatomical sense, it's a biological fact. Well, in the anatomical sense, it's a biological fact of the back door.

Wanna know a little more about why straight people have anal sex all the time? Well, straight men like to stuff up their bums just as much as gay men do. As mentioned before, the prostate gland (located just up your arse) is a 'gay thing' when massaged. Lots of men, gay or straight, like how this feels.

Still, unlike vaginal sex, a little more thought has to go into it. Here's why:

Bumming Instruction Manual

NO. The whole point of being gay is that it's two guys. Being a bottom makes a dude no less manly than his top partner. Look at it this way: he's literally 'taking it like a man'.

How do you know if you're a top or a bottom? Easy. If you're having a big hard on, you're a top. If you're not, you're a bottom. See? Easy.

So, if you're having a big hard on, you're a top. If you're not, you're a bottom. This saves time further up in bed with two guys. If you're a top, you might like to have a big hard on as you go to bed. If you're a bottom, you might like to have anal sex.

you NEED lube if you're a bottom. Anal sex hurts. The vagina does. This also means it can be very painful. Men don't like being a bottom. It can be hugely enjoyable – a good kind of pain.

If you want to have anal sex, one of you is going to have to go 'top' (the one who puts his willy in) and the other 'bottom' (the one who gets the willy up his bum).

I recognise this doesn't sound VERY sexy, but this is Roles: This is where dude-dude pairings can get tricky. If you want to have anal sex, one of you is going to have to be the one who puts his willy in) and the other 'bottom' (the one who gets the willy up his bum).

Gay men seem to spend a lot of time talking about this. It's not a massive deal, as most guys are 'versatile' and will happily switch roles depending on mood, although there are guys who prefer to be strictly top or bottom.

Is the top 'the man' and the bottom 'the woman'?

Up your bum you have a prostate gland which feels nice when massaged.

Something they don't teach you in school is that, in order to be able to cum at all, you or your partner may need to finish off with a handie.

The lips: Sex should always start with a kiss. Initially, you might not go any further than a kiss, in fact. Kissing is as intimate as sex, and if you're not comfortable going further than a kiss, a good partner will respect this and wait.

Keep in mind that sex doesn't begin and end with your dick. Be creative.

Penis: If you are already knowledgeable, gentle stimulation can be enough to inspire a stiffy in this super-sensitive organ. But keep in mind that sex doesn't begin and end with your dick. Be creative.

in a variety of fun ways.

Important skill you will master as a gay or bi man is the handjob. The good news is, you can practise on yourself. The bad news is, you have become very used to his own way of getting himself off. Learning to understand a partner's personal style can take ages, but it can be very rewarding when you do.

THE GREAT SEX APP DEBATE

I have used Grindr—the advantages are you can get what you want quickly. The downside is that it's the same people repeatedly so you can get boring very quickly.

The benefits are obvious: quick, easy, and uncomplicated sex.

I've met a variety of interesting people through sex apps.

...interesting people through [sex apps] are obviously used for sex though... as "social networking" apps, but we all know what they're really for. It's a bit like selling a dildo under the pretext that its sole use is a draft excluder. I don't have a problem with that aspect of it—if people

How sex apps work:

1. Upload a tiny pic of yourself to the app.
2. The app works out your location.
3. The app tells you who the nearest homosexuals are.
4. You then chat to them.
5. Because they are near, it is easy to meet up with them.

If all partners are honest, open and safe about their lifestyle choices, it makes no difference how many sexual partners you have.

You can choose to be promiscuous or you can choose not to be.

I am less sure about multiple sexual partners if all partners are honest, open and safe about their lifestyle choices, it makes no difference how many sexual partners you have. It's not someone else's patch, mind! No one is pinching magpie!

It's about CHOICES, and I believe everyone should be able to live as long as they don't harm one else OR THEMSELVES in the process. You can choose to be promiscuous or you can choose not to be. Regardless of how many partners your mates have, regardless of your raging horn, regardless of how many offers you get ... the CHOICE is always yours.

Let's be clear: if straight men look like dogs if they treat women badly, gay men are 'tough' and can treat each other as badly as they like. Promiscuous straight men, but are often non-judgemental the idea of roles is far from new. It's a matter of persuasion. Many straight people play as well, with one partner or another. Gay people did not invent this. Shades malarkey.

For some people, the idea of 'top or bottom' or 'active or passive' is an important part of being fulfilled.

'If it's for a quick shag on Grindr, etc., then yes [roles matter]. I don't use those sort of apps to have a chat or

I've only ever slept with two women who enjoyed using dildos. I hate wearing a strap-on. I've only ever done it once and I NEVER AGAIN! But then I'm more of a receiving kind of person anyway. Strap-ons are really hard work! You need to be FIT to really shag with one. And don't ever expect to cum when you're wearing it.

The whole 'butch dykes love strap-ons' thing is a bit of a differing opinions from friends and lovers. I'm in agreement with the above statement that strap-ons are emasculated by a 'pretend dick'. It's not for everyone, but for them, some people don't.

But back to orgasms. I love a good hand job or anal – but, honestly, that's not the real pleasure of being shagged. And sometimes it's enough in itself. That's not a timid 'I'm happy, I'm happy' excuse. Generally, though, the best orgasm.

When it comes to asking for help sometimes, if your lover is doing it wrong, help them out once or twice. That might feel like a bit of a hand with, and it is, really, but it's not where you're putting it. If you have a 'This isn't straight sex, it's not as respectful than them' attitude, then it's not your fault and don't ever be ashamed of it.

Lastly, if you're going to take turns (unless you're 69ing). I haven't found an effective way to not take turns yet. Just make sure you don't do it in a 'Right, I suppose I have to do you, now' kind of way.

Actually really lastly: on reflection, I don't think girl-on-girl sex is any different to any other type of sex. If you just listen to what your body wants, what turns you on, and are never ashamed to ask for it, and if you

3. Toys and strap-ons: Some women like these; some don't. Much has been written about why gay women would seek to play with a replacement penis, but I say who the heck cares—if it feels nice, go for it! Moreover, a man is more than a penis—just because a woman wants something a bit penis-shaped doesn't mean she fancies broad-shouldered, beardy, no-boobed men.

Toys, dildos, vibrators, and strap-ons all fulfill the same purpose—a prosthesis to insert into the vagina. As with gay men, one woman isn't the "man." Two women having same-sex sex are two women!

For some couples, though, the idea of having to suppress urges is a little crazy, and so they allow each other the freedom to act on their desires.

In most open relationships, there are certain RULES. These often include:

- Safe sex only (well, duh).
 - No anal (in the case of gay and bi men).
 - Never in the home.
 - Never on other's
 - No last names.
 - No kissing.
 - No repeated performance (on the home)

Although, with so many rules, one does have to question how much "freedom" couples really have.
